

Accelerating the Pace of Chemical Risk Assessments Workshop

September 14 – 15, 2016

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

William Jefferson Clinton East Building, Room 1153 (“Map Room”)

1201 Constitution Avenue NW, Washington DC

General Information

Security. Please allow time for security inspection on both meeting days. You will need to show EPA Security personnel your passport if you are not a U.S. citizen and a government-issued ID if you are a U.S. citizen. All bags will be subject to x-ray inspection. Please plan to take your laptop out of your bag (and possibly your shoes off) for the x-ray inspection. Tell security you are attending the “Accelerating the Pace of Chemical Risk Assessments Workshop.” EPA employees will be escorting visitors to the conference room.

Lunch and Coffee. To maximize our time together, we are bringing in lunch for working/networking lunch sessions on both days of the workshop, as well as coffee, tea, and water in the mornings and afternoons. U.S. Federal Government regulations preclude us from purchasing these food and beverage items for you. Please plan to reimburse our contractor staff for the cost of your two lunches and the coffee service. The total cost is $22.50 USD/day, for a total of $45 USD. Specifically, please plan to reimburse Kim Osborn (ICF contractor) onsite with $45 USD, either in cash or via PayPal at PayPal.Me/KimOsborn/45 She will e-mail you a receipt. Please e-mail Kim.Osborn@icfi.com by Friday, September 9 with any food restrictions.

Group Dinner. Reservations with arrangements for separate checks have been made at the Old Ebbitt Grill restaurant located at 675 15th Street, NW, Washington DC for 6 pm. (See map below.) Please sign up at the workshop registration desk if you would like to attend.

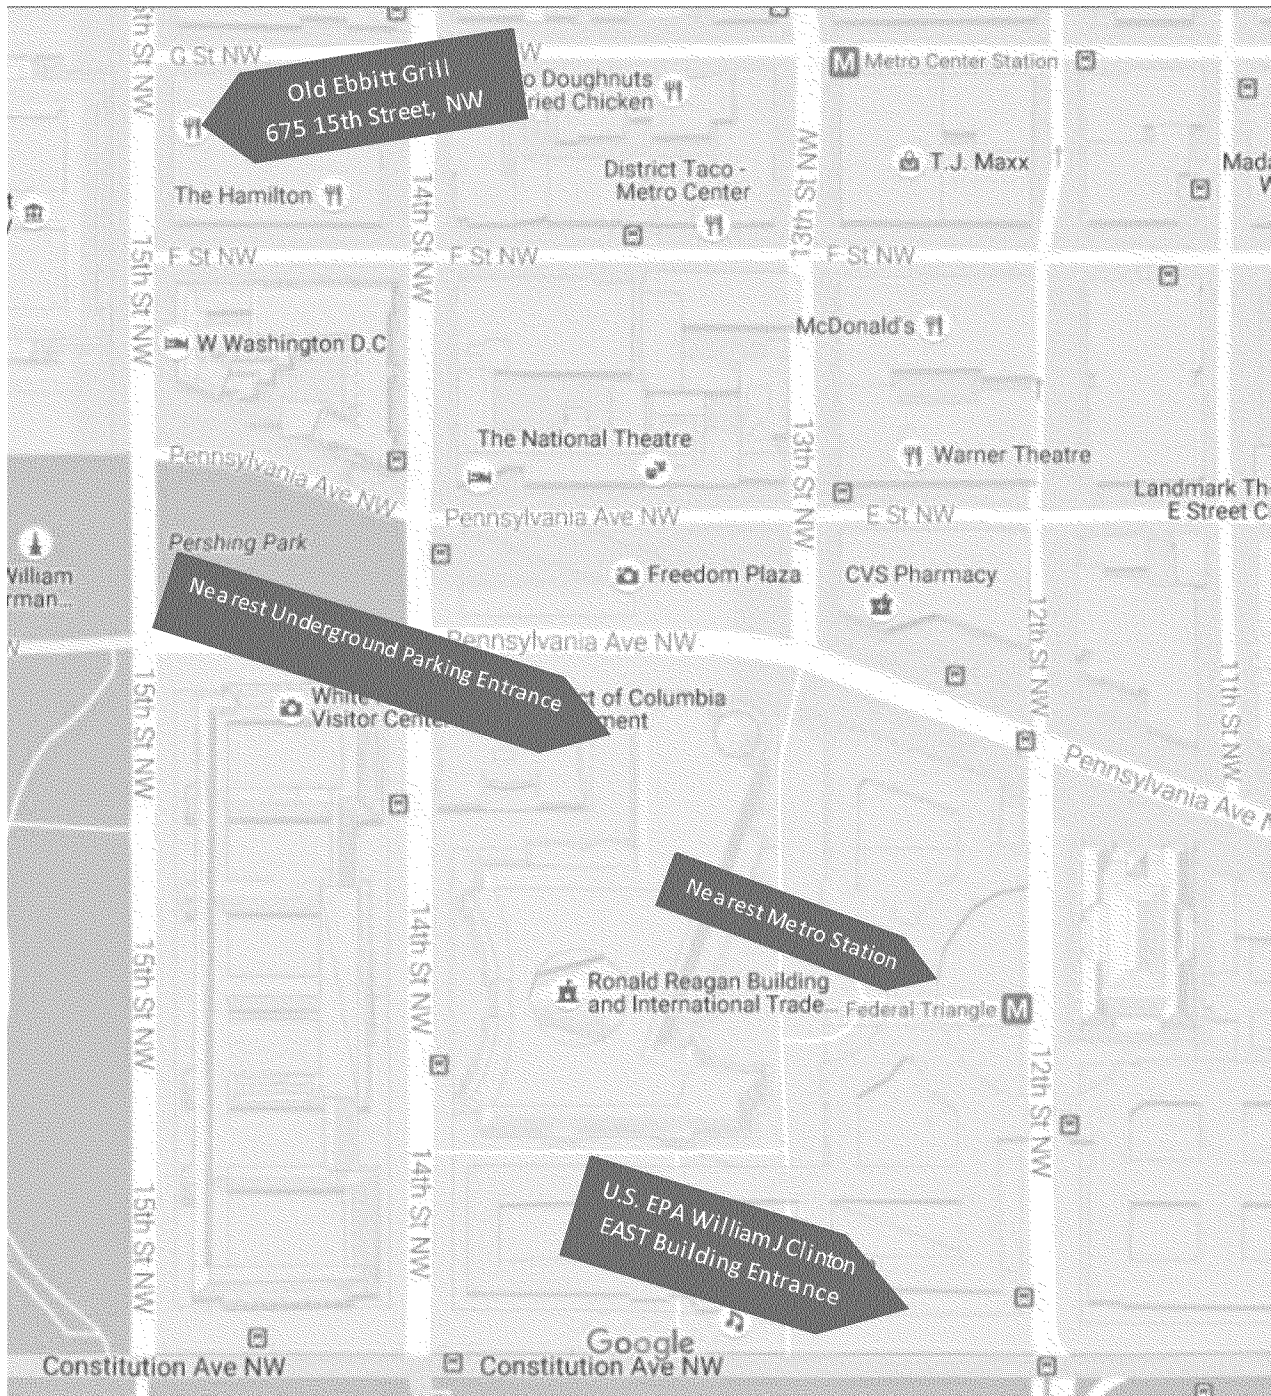

Climate. Washington DC mid-September temperatures range from highs around 31°C (88°F) to lows in the evening around 15 °C (59°F). Humidity levels around 50% make it feel warmer.
